Scotty McCreery to Appear in Concert at Viking Hall

Season ten, American Idol, who won? Bet you can't remember, but say the name Scotty McCreery, and everyone knows who you are referring to. That deep, deep voice, that irresistible smile and sound, who could forget the North Carolina native who defeated another female country crooner after receiving a majority of the record 122 million votes cast by viewers during the 2011 season.

Scotty McCreery will be headlining one performance only at Viking Hall Civic Center on Sunday afternoon, October 27 at 5:00 PM. Tickets will go on sale Saturday September 21 at 10:00 AM.

McCreery earning both a platinum and gold album before turning 20, he is poised to become country's newest superstar. With over 150 live shows under his belt across the U.S., Canada and the Philippines, McCreery has become a fan favorite appealing to all ages. "We are very excited about having Scotty in concert at Viking Hall. This will be his first show for his fans in the Mountain Empire. It really worked out in an odd fashion. We have Willie Robertson, from A&E's Duck Dynasty coming in just a few days before Scotty. While working with Robertson, we found out that Scotty had been invited to provide the entertainment on their 2014 Duck Dynasty Cruise. It is a small world," said Darlene Cole, Venues Manager for the city.

The show will feature opening act Angie Johnson, a Missouri native who served in the U.S. Air Force as an intelligence analyst before perusing her dream of a music career.
