Ewell Easley Annex Closed due to water break

Economic and Community Development staffs moved to new location

Bristol's Economic and Community Development Department will be closed for a yet unspecified period of time due to a water line break that flooded the Ewell Annex where the department is housed.

Those needing to meet with Codes personnel may do so at the Slater Center located at 325 McDowell Street in room 208. Planning and Transportation staff offices have been moved to room 202 at the Slater Center. The department staff may be reached by phone at their usual numbers or call 989-5500 for assistance.

"We are sorry for any inconvenience this may cause our customers. We will be working as quickly as possible to remedy the problems and move back to our offices on Shelby and Eighth Street. My understanding is it may take a few days to get things back to normal," said Shari Brown, Director of the department.

The public will be notified once the repairs have been made.
